

Marcian Cole

Marcia N. Cole—author, speaker, nurse, and passionate advocate for healing and justice. After tragically losing my 22-year-old brother to domestic violence in 2020, I committed my life to raising awareness about the often-overlooked impact of abuse on men, especially Black men. She shares this journey in my book Shattered Yet Unbroken, and through her live event series of the same name, she created space for others to grieve, heal, and turn pain into purpose. Her mission is to amplify silenced voices, advocate for mental health and emotional safety, and help individuals and families find freedom through faith, truth, and community. With both personal experience and professional insight, I bring compassion, urgency, and vision to every stage I stand on.
